"Insider Tips To Make Your Business Run Faster, Easier and More Profitably"

From Manual to Digital: Simplifying Operations with Technology

If there's one thing every business owner can agree on, it's this: keeping everything on track can feel like juggling eggs and chainsaws. Daily operations alone are exhausting, and when you throw in marketing, payroll, inventory, customer service, strategy, and the occasional "Why is this broken again?" moment, it's no wonder most business owners work late nights. However, technology is changing the traditional ways of doing business. Whatever your business may be, the right digital tools can lift the weight of time-consuming and repetitive tasks off your shoulders. The transition can seem intimidating at first, but just a slight shift can free up your time and brain space for bigger and better things.

Why Smarter Tools Make a Big Difference

Operational tools aren't flashy gadgets or complex systems. It's the quiet force that powers business efficiency across industries. Digital tools handle everything from customer service to inventory tracking, saving time, reducing errors, and allowing you to focus on what you enjoy about running your business.

Workflow automation is one example of the impact technology can have on a business. Automating repetitive tasks like invoicing, appointment scheduling, or social media posting not only frees up your time, but also prevents important things from falling through the cracks.

For small teams or solo entrepreneurs, automation is like having a tireless coworker. It might not make your coffee (yet), but it will free you up to drink it before it gets cold.

Let Tech Carry the Repetitive Stuff

Process optimization tools may seem simple, but they're part of a much bigger shift in business operations.

Cloud software is a great example of a widely accepted technology that's completely changed the way we work. Sure, you can access files in the cloud from anywhere, but you can also expand your team beyond your local area, which allows you to work with incredible people who make a real difference to your company's success.

Start Small: Fix One Frustration

Getting the most value from business technology isn't about chasing trends. It's about identifying one area of your business that makes you groan and trying a smarter and simpler way to handle it.

You don't have to be a tech pro or reinvent your whole system. Start with one annoying task, like invoicing, scheduling, or the back-and-forth emails that your team could handle with a shared calendar or a simple app.

...the right digital tools can lift the weight of time-consuming and repetitive tasks off your shoulders.

There's likely a tool out there that solves the exact problem you're facing. Try one and see what happens if it saves you even 20 minutes a day; that adds up fast.

Better Tools, Less Burnout

Owning a business will always be demanding, but the right technology can ease some of the burden.

To get started with digital transformation, consider an app or software upgrade that aligns with your current needs. You might not notice the difference immediately, but you'll feel it the next time you get to enjoy your coffee while it's hot.

In the end, it's all about finding the right tools that help you run your business your way with a little less stress and a lot more clarity. If you are looking to do more with your time, call us.

QUICK SECURITY TIPS: Below are two similar domain addresses, can you determine what the difference is between them? Citibank.com is not the same URL as Citibank.com. (the first one is correct, the second one is from hackers.) The "a" in the second URL is in the Cyrillic alphabet. An average Internet user can easily fall for this. Be careful for every email requiring you to click on a link. The landing page they may send you to won't necessarily be legitimate although it may look authentic. If in doubt, double-check for the https and the certificate. Click on the lock, go to "Connection is secure," then click the > (right arrow). Then click on the "Cert" to verify its authenticity.

"I DIDN'T KNOW"

Unfortunately, That Excuse Doesn't Replenish Your Bank Account, Resolve A Data

Breach Or Erase Any Fines And Lawsuits.

It's coming ...

- That day a hacker steals critical data, rendering your office useless
- That day when your bank account or credit card is compromised
- Or that day when your customers' private lives are uprooted

Cybercriminals and hackers are constantly inventing NEW ways to infiltrate your company, steal your assets and disrupt your life. The ONLY way to STOP THEM is this:

You Must Constantly Educate Yourself On How To Protect What's Yours!

Quick Productivity Tips

This month, we continue with tips to give you insights into Windows 11. This issue will cover more Applications (a.k.a., "Apps") to enhance your productivity.

Accessing Snip & Sketch with ease

Windows allows you to grab a copy of images and text from your screen using Snip & Sketch. You have seen it's benefit regularly in my newsletter. The standard method used to open this feature is Windows key (⊞) + SHIFT+S. Try it on your active screen, once it opens, you will see your screen seems to go grayish and a "+" appears. To select something to "snip" just marquee in the selection of screen, drag from one corner to the opposing corner using the mouse to move the cursor. The left mouse button (primary) must be held down the entire time you make your selection.

So, what's the trick? I already knew that part?! Well, you can also go into Settings > [Home] > Accessibility > Keyboard, then toggle ON the third box down in the second section (On-screen keyboard, access keys, and Print screen) "Use the Print screen button to open screen snipping." After you do this, just press the top row button on your keyboard that has "Print Screen" on it and it will launch.

NOTE: We have TechSmith's Snagit® installed on our machine and having enabled the Print Screen button for a "Snip" resulted in launching the Snagit Screen Capture instead. You may have similar results if you use a third party application to do screen grabs.

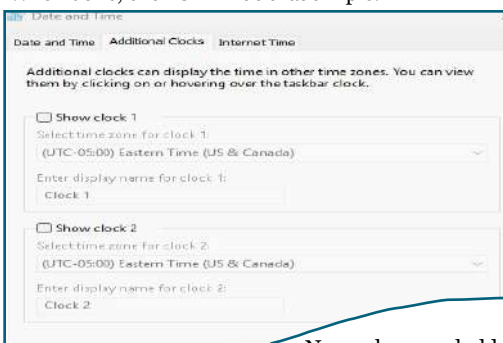

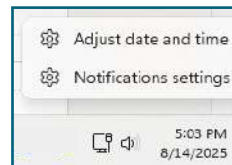

Are your friends & family in other time zones?

If they are, you can have Windows display multiple clocks, so you may know the time in their time zone.

NOTE: It is best to read this column while at your computer for a better understanding of the content presented. Enjoy!

It's easier than you may have expected:

1. Go the System Tray (the bottom right corner) of your screen.
2. Right-click on the clock/date element. A window will pop-up awaiting your selection of "Adjust Date and Time"—left click on that selection.
3. You will be transported to Settings > Time & language > Date & time. In the third grouping, bottom box, you will see "Additional clocks (Clocks for different time zones). Click on .
4. A Date and Time window will appear and you will already be on the Additional Clocks tab. You can add two (2) additional named clocks. Enable one or both, then choose the respective time zones and the names. When done, click OK — it's that simple.

Now, when you hold mouse over the date and time in the System Tray, you will see both additional clocks with their Date and Time in addition to your Local time. We hope this makes your life more organized and productive with these tips. Source: Kevin Stratvert Youtube

Did you know...?

- Cyber-attacks have continued to grow in cost, size, and impact—causing 60% of SMBs to go out of business within 6 months of a cyber incident.
- Over 80% of data breaches leverage stolen passwords as the principal attack vector—often acquired on the Dark Web.
- Far too often, companies that have had their credentials compromised and sold on the Dark Web don't know it until they have been informed by law enforcement—but then, it's too late.
- To help keep your critical business assets safe from the compromises that lead to breach and theft, we are offering a complimentary, one-time scan with Dark Web ID™ Credential Monitoring.

The Lighter Side...

The Dumbest Boy

A young boy enters a barbershop. The barber says to his customer, "This is the dumbest kid in the World. Watch, I'll prove it to you." So, the barber puts a dollar bill in one hand and two quarters in the other hand. Then, the barber calls the boy over and says, "Son, which do you want?" The boy takes the two quarters and leaves. "What did I tell you?" says the barber. That boy will never learn. Later, when the customer leaves, he sees the same boy coming out of an ice cream parlor. He says, "Hey, Son! Can I ask you a question? Why did you choose the quarters over the dollar bill?" The boy licks his ice cream cone and responds, "Because the day I take that dollar, the game is over."

My Big, Fat Cousin

One day, I got a call from my big, fat cousin. He said, "Joe, I need to lose five pounds right away. Can you help me?" I said, "Sure, I'll send over someone right away." In front of my cousin's house, this young lady showed up in pink running sneakers and a sign that read, "If you can catch me, you can have me." When my big, fat cousin read the sign, he started running after her. He ran about 4-5 miles chasing her, but he never could catch up. When he went into his house, he weighed himself and he had lost about 5 pounds. He called me and said, "That worked great, but now, I need to lose 10 pounds. Can you help me?" I told him I would send over someone the next day. The next day, he walked out of his house and saw an even prettier lady wearing pink running shoes and a sign on her that read, "If you can catch me, you can have me." So, my big, fat cousin started to chase her. I had told her to tease him a little bit to keep him running after her. He ran about 8 miles, but never caught her and gave up. When he got home, he stood on the scale again and weighed himself. He had lost over 10 pounds and was elated.

That night, he called me up, again! "Cousin, I need to lose 15 pounds. Can you help me?" I said, "Sure, of course I can, but are you sure you really need to lose that much so quickly because this will be really hard?" He said, "Absolutely!" So, I told him, "I'll have someone in front of your house bright and early tomorrow morning."

So, the next morning, my big, fat cousin walked out of his house and found a big, muscular guy. He had on pink running shoes and a sign around his neck that read, "If I can catch you, I'm gonna have you."

My big, fat cousin lost 25 pounds that day.

The Young Wedding Participant

A little boy was in a relative's wedding. As he came down the aisle, he would take two steps, stop, and turn to the crowd. While facing the crowd, he would put his hands up like claws and roar. So it went: step, step, ROAR, step, step, ROAR, all the way down the aisle.

As you can imagine, the crowd was near tears from laughing so hard by the time he reached the engaged couple. The bride leaned over and asked the boy what he was doing. He proudly replied, "I'm the Ring Bear."
